FIRST EVER FLINTSTONES STORY!

In celebration of the 35th anniversary of The Flintstones, THE FLINTSTONES #7, now on newsstands, features a spectacular adaptation of the very first Flintstones episode ever aired. This story, drawn the way it was first seen way back on September 30, 1960, is drawn by Bill White and Scott Awley and adapted by Mike Kirschenbaum. This incredible-looking special feature -- did someone say "an hysterical historical" -- is one every Flintstones fan, no, make that comic fan, will want to keep! Look for the cover with a representative drawing of the story. It'll jump right off the stands and into your hands!

GEORGE IS THE SAME SIZE AS ELROY!!!

It's "The Incredible Shrinking George Jetson™" in THE JETSONS™ #7, now on sale, as Mr. Spacely's™ "Youth in Asia" machine turns George into a 12 year old ... uh, make that 11 ... uh, 6 ... hold on, he's a baby! It's a wild and wacky catastrophe that doesn't stop till George becomes a just born infant, clutching his own driver's license! Where it all ends up is something you won't want to miss.

SCRAPPY BECOMES RACCOON MAN!

Look! Up in the sky!

No, swinging from the tree! No, crashing through the forest! It's Raccoon Man! SCOOBY-DOO™ #6 features the zaniest story yet in this zany series as Scrappy becomes the super hero to end all super heroes. "We believe you were meant to lead the animals against the humans," he's told by his raccoon foster father. "Does this mean no homework?" asks Raccoon Man. "Not by a long shot," is his answer. This all happens in the midst of the American northwest where the teenage detectives find walking trees and giant robots. "A Tree Grows In Seattle" is a story you'll never forget.

RANGER REVEALS REAL YOGI! Ranger Smith™

steps out of "The Bear Truth," the feature story in HANNA-BARBERA PRESENTS #3: YOGI BEAR™, to tell the unadulterated truth about the mischievous bruin. Mincing no words and holding nothing back, the ranger breaks out of the confines of the comic page to reveal what he's never done before -- the hidden side of Yogi Bear!

It's one of the most creative and riotous Yogi stories ever, and just one of four wacky tales in this all-Yogi, all-hilarious issue!

WRITER ON TARGET!

Issues this month

feature two super writers in Bill Vally and Mike Kirschenbaum. Bill, who has written most of the Yogi book and several other stories, comes up with some of the most offbeat stories you'll find on these pages. Check 'em out. Mike, who is well-represented in all the other titles, is a writer for many Hollywood TV sitcoms and stand-up acts and is currently wowing audiences with his own stand-up act all across country.

Top Cat™ is back in action for the first time in twenty years next month as he grabs the lead in HANNA-BARBERA ALL-STARS #4. It's an absolute event! Also featured are Fred and Yogi ... Fred comes up with the invention of the Stone Age as he creates Wonderwear, in his own magazine, THE FLINTSTONES™ #8. You'll want a pair for yourself ... George Jetson™ must go back to school -- and in Elroy's class -- to keep his job at Spacely Sprockets, in THE JETSONS™ #8. It's priceless! (And at just $1.50!) Mummies come alive ... and daddies run for cover, in SCOOBY-DOO™ #7, as the supernatural sleuths are trapped in a weird wax museum.

Dear Archie Comics,
THANK YOU, THANK YOU A THOUSAND TIMES! I know that this might sound a little silly but I am a 35-year-old man who loves comic books. I have been reading and collecting comics since I was a kid and I haven't stopped yet. So I am just thrilled to see new stories and art of Hanna-Barbera comic books. I plan on getting each and every one that comes out.

I am upset about only one thing and that is that Yogi Bear doesn't have his own book. But once again, thank you!

-- Robert Sutton, Jr.,
Columbus, Ohio

(Robert, YOU'RE WELCOME! And don't fret about being a 35-year-old man who reads comics when there are crowds of 35-year-old men who edit them! By the way, Yogi Bear will appear in his own comic book very shortly, as part of the Hanna-Barbera Presents series. And it's full of hilarious surprises. He's also an ongoing feature in the bi-monthly Hanna-Barbera All-Stars.)

Dear Editor,
I've been waiting for the new Flintstones for over two years now, ever since the 1993 comic con in Philadelphia when Harvey editor Sid Jacobson gave away a sampler of their upcoming line of Hanna-Barbera comics. Well, Flintstones #1 has all the qualities that I feel will bring a reader back into the H-B fold. Not just little children, but kids of all ages.

(It has) spectacular positively animated artwork and a near-perfect coloring job. Who says you need to pay over two bucks for high-grade paper for colors to look bold and bright? The expressions were priceless and conveyed a modern look which the characters deserve.

Thanks for making my wishes come true with a terrific new line of comics. See you in thirty days.

-- Joey Marchese,
Clark, NJ

(Thanks for making our wishes come true, Joey. And don't worry, we will be giving credits.)

Dear Editor,
I'm a big fan of Hanna-Barbera cartoons and because of that, I was extremely disappointed when Harvey Comics stopped publishing them. But now, a million thanks to you, I won't have to worry about it anymore.

Whatever you do, please never stop publishing Scooby-Doo (it's my favorite cartoon!) and keep Daphne in the stories as well as on the covers. She's my favorite character.

Also, I think it would be great if you could include a poster of the covers inside each Hanna-Barbera comic. How about it?

-- Al Quilliam, Laval,
Quebec, Canada

(Don't worry, Al, Daphne will always be there. And by the way, what do the rest of you think about the poster idea? Drop us a line and let us know.)
